

THE NEWBERRY

Center for Renaissance Studies

Renaissance Print Culture

An Aldine Quincentennial Symposium

Saturday, February 7, 2015

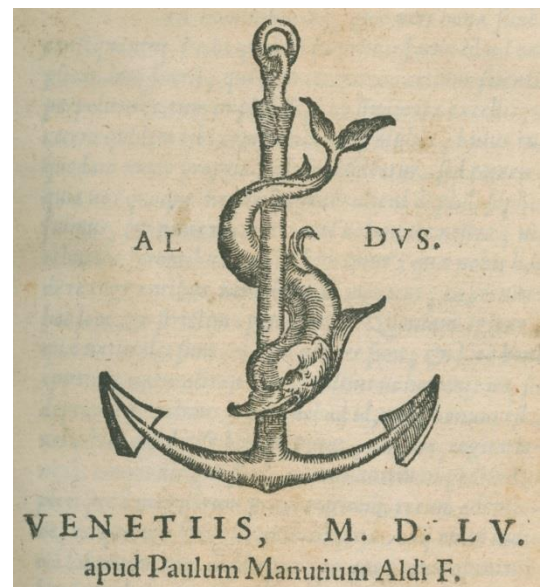

9:00 am to 3:30 pm

February 2015 will mark the five-hundredth anniversary of the death of the Renaissance humanist scholar and innovative Venetian printer, Aldus Manutius. In honor of the occasion this symposium will bring the fruits of recent research in printing history to a broad public.

Keynote address

“Venetian Printing in the Early Cinquecento and the Impact of Aldus Manutius.”

Brian Richardson, University of Leeds

Printer's mark for the Aldine Press, 1555, in Newberry Wing ZP 535 .A36322.

Speakers

Adam Hooks, University of Iowa

Elizabeth Horodowich, New Mexico State University

Mark Peterson, James Madison University

Kevin Stevens, University of Nevada, Reno

This program is free and open to the public, but space is limited and registration is required.

Register online by 10:00 am Friday, February 6, at:

www.newberry.org/renaissance