

THE NEWBERRY

Center for Renaissance Studies

Symposium on the English and Dutch in the Early Modern World

Friday, October 19, 2012, 9:00 am to 3:00 pm
Towner Fellows Lounge, The Newberry Library

This symposium will bring together scholars interested in topics related to Anglo-Dutch relations; English and Dutch colonial efforts; or Native and Indigenous studies as inflected by English and Dutch colonization in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Anglo-Dutch relations spanned the globe in the early modern period, from their long-standing proximate relations in the context of the European north, to their on-going rivalries and collaborations in the Americas and East Indies.

In both the American and East Indies contexts, Anglo-Dutch relations informed the shape, scale, and imaginative limits of colonial enterprise. This symposium will begin to address how the English and Dutch represented these relations and to what end.

Sponsored by Purdue University and organized by Kristina Bross, Purdue University, and Marjorie Rubright, University of Toronto.

Henry Stubbe, A further justification of the present war against the United Netherlands, Newberry Case F 4672

Speakers

Andrew Fleck, San Jose State University

Alison Games, Georgetown University

Jeffrey Glover, Loyola University Chicago

Evan Haefeli, Columbia University

Sabine Klein, University of Maine Farmington

Su Fang Ng, University of Oklahoma

Joanne van der Woude, University of Groningen

This program is free and open to the public, but registration in advance is required. Register online at:

www.newberry.org/renaissance